

BUDGET BREAKDOWN

A budget is designed to fit your needs not someone else's while this is a budget that would be the goal it does not make it the only way to break down your budget. This budget should help to set parameters on how to attack debt. Fill in "what the goal amount means" to you compared to "what you are actual spending".

Housing
Goal	Actual
Transportation
Goal	Actual
Food
Goal	Actual
Savings
Goal	Actual
Utilities & Phone
Goal	Actual
Holiday / Gifts
Goal	Actual
Medical / Health
Goal	Actual
Entertainment
Goal	Actual

Debt
Goal	Actual

Miscellaneous
Goal	Actual

Clothing
Goal	Actual

Now it is time for fun because 9 out of 10 times you did not hit the goal target and that is ok. Everyone is unique! So let us make a Goal budget just for you.

First – Do these categories fit your budget? If not change the name or remove the ones that are obsolete.

Second – The % just like the categories can change to fit your needs. I recommend that you do not exceed the % amounts for Housing, Transportation, Food, and Entertainment (unless it is a planned expense like travel). Ensure that your total Goal % still equals 100%. Anything over 100% is not sustainable.

Third – Perform the below math for each category

$$\boxed{\text{Individual Category Goal Amount}} \div \boxed{\text{Total Monthly Income}}$$

Housing

Transportation

Food

Savings

Utilities & Phone

Holiday / Gifts

Medical / Health

Entertainment

Clothing

Miscellaneous

Debt

Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %
Goal $	Goal %